Led Him to Shoot his Wife. Mrs. Sarah Jane Dezendorf of 164 Prince street, Brooklyn, who on Sanday afternoon was shot by her husband, Edwin M. Dezendorf, who afterward shot and killed himself, was much mproved yesterday, and the doctors think she Dezendorf testified that she and her husband quarrelled on Sunday morning, and he accused her of being drunk. When she denied it he

I thought that he would fire a second shot at me, and I pulled the feather bed over me. He fired the second shot at himself, and as I fell upon the floor, he fell alongside of me. He said nothing after he shot me. He had nothing after he shot me. He had nothing after he shot me. He had outside a distribution of the control of the control

It is alleged by the widow's friends that the trouble between herself and her husband was brought to a climax by her discovery that he recently made love to a widow's daughter in Williamsburgh. It is claimed that he led her to believe that he would marry her, and that he hid his picture taken with her's. Through this picture the young lady's mether, it is averted, learned that Dezendorf was already married. The dead man's relatives say that they do not believe this story is true.

STRIKES HANGING FIRE.

There was no strike on any of the crosstown car lines yestorday, although one had street and Twenty-third street line were informed in the morning that they would receive an advance of one cent a trip. They have been getting 12% cents diffip and making fitteen trips a day, but they say there will soon be only fourteen trips a day, so that they will get no more a week than before. Most of the drivers are in favor of a strike, and would have tled up are in favor of a strike, and would have tied up yesterday, but the drivers who went out itrst refused to lead off. There was a short strike of the hands at the stable of the company at the foot of East Twenty-third street. The men have been getting $9.50 and $100 aweek. They storped work and sight cars collected, but in a little while the President of the company notified them that they would be reafter be paid $11 a week, and they resturned to work.

The pay of the stable hands of the Avenue D line has been increased from $10 to $11 a week, but there has been no increase in the nay of the drivers. They have been getting $15, cents a trip, and have been making $11 trips a day, occupying $13 hours and 40 minutes. They now want $20 cents a trip, and 10 trips a day, which will shorten their time of labor 1 hour and 13 minutes. Their application was sent in yesterday morning, and a reply was received that a new time table was being prepared and the matter would be considered. There has never been a strike on this line.

The drivers of the Broadway and University place line are cetting 25 cents a trip, and most of them make eight trips a day, although there are

The drivers of the Broadway and Charles of place line are cetting 25 cents at rip, and most of them make eight trips a day, although there are a number of cars that make only six trips a day. The men want $2 a day for seven trips, and for the men want $2 a day for seven trips, and for the proportion. They have The men want $2 a day for seven trips, and for a leaser number in proportion. They have made no formal representations to the company, but expect to do so soon.

M. W. Connery of the Executive Committee of the ear drivers says that the reason why there was no strike on Sunday or vesterday is that the drivers did not wish to incommode the public on those days. He says that the strike has simply been postponed.

A crowd of limp, slow-moving men, most of them wearing wide, flat shoes, and one in a pair of slippers, gathered resterday in the Clipper office. They hadn't much to say to each other; their attitudes were flaccid and their faces were expressionless. They were the pedestrians of last week's race, and their manner plainly showed the reaction after the strain and excitement of the contest. Daniel O'Leary and excitement of the cenetion after the strain and excitement of the centest. Daniel O'Leary stood quietly by while the accounts were being made out, and left before all were paid off. Bryan G. Meswyny signed the checks, and as each pedestrian's name was called he came forward, took his money, and departed.

The receipts were $6,961, of which forty-five per cent, went to the pedestrians making the five highest scores. Perry, Dufrane, Curran, Littlewood, Clow, and Hazzel, having each covered 450 miles, had their entrance fees of $100 returned to them. Barney Woods and Jim Smith, who represented the pedestrians at the tickst office during the race, received $350. These amounts deducted from the entrance money, $1 400, left $450 to be added to the gate money, making a total of $3.582.45 to be divided among the winners. Vint got 40 per cent. amounting to $1.32.95, with $1.000 additional from Mr. O'Leary for beating the record; Suiliyan got 25 per cent, $905.61 and $500 additional for beating the record; Hughes's 17 per cent. gave him $358.24, and Howard got the remaining 8 per cent, amounting to $28.559. Most of them received their checks without remark. Pluzgeraid said: When my cutrance fee of $100 and the expenses and loss of time training are deducted, this don't leave anything for he."

How which are the losses, $4.000 or $5,000?"

McSwyny was asked.

"Hisastrousi," was the answer.

"How much are the losses, $4,000 or $5,000?"

"All of that. Walking matches don't take in $40,000 and $50,000 as they have done. But we had a good race, and we don't murmur. The walking business seems to be overdone for the present, but the interest will revive again."

CHARGES AGAINST A PREACHER.

Brought by his Brother's Widow. The Rev. Louis Eulner, a Lutheran min later in Brooklyn, has been called upon to answer, in the Supreme Court of this city, a charge preferred against him by Mrs. Gertrude E. Eulner, the widow of his deceased brother, Valentine Eulper. Valentine Eulner was policeman in this city for many years, and, while still on the force, died on the 15th of May a year ago. He and the plaintiff, Mrs. Eulner. were married on Sept. 3, 1865, and they lived together till his death. She was his third wife, In her complaint she alleges that her deceased

In her compiaint she alleges that her deceased husband left a will, which was admitted to probate by Surrogate Caivin on the 1st of last June. The will provides that when the youngest of four children shall come of age, the executors may, if they think proper, sell or dispose of the property, and out of the proceeds pay the widow her dower right, and divide the rest equally among the children.

Mrs. Eulner says that she is informed and believes that her deceased husband on April 27, 1863, without any consideration whatever, executed a deed of reallestate, consisting of land and houses in Morrisania, to the Rev. Louis Eulner, the defendant in this action. The reason assigned for making such a deed is that Mr. Eulner was in dread of a threatened prosecution, and he was afraid if he kept the property in his own name it might be imperilled; so he made it over to his brother. Mrs. Eulner maintains that the transfer was merely formal, and was never designed as a gift to the minister. The anticipated prosecution never came, and therefore the seed, though drawn up, was never delivered, she avers. On the death of her husband, the Roy. Mr. Eulner took possession of his effects, and for the first time, she asserts, discovered the deed; and she charges her brother-in-law with having fraudulently apprepriated it to his own use by having it recorded in the Register's office and claiming title under it.

recorded in the Register's office and claiming title under it.

The answer of the minister, who is one of the executors, is that on the date mentioned, over eighteen years ago, the deed was made and delivered to him, and has been in his possession ever since, up to the time when it was left with the Register here, and that it is false to say that he only found it accidentally a year ago among his deceased brother's papers. The deed was delivered to him, he says, with confidence in his integrity and with the understood but unwritten trust that the property should be held over and used for the peneft of the children. The Rev. Mr. Eulner adds that he did not claim the actual possession of the property during his brother's lifetime, for the reason that during that period his brother was providing for the support and education of the beneficiaries under the understood trust spoken of. He avers that he never claimed and does not now claim to be the owner of the estate, except in claim to be the owner of the estate, except in frust; and that he is now ready to surrender it to the beneficiaries if the court so direct. But he denies that the plaintiff has any right what-ever in the estate, and asks that the complaint be dismissed with costs.

Risking Death to Save a Few Days' Imprisor

ment on Blackwell's Island. Frantic cries for help aroused the warden and prison guards at Blackwell's Island on Saturday, half an hour before midnight. The calls came from the middle of the river, on the Long Island side. There are always twentyfour keepers at night, ready to turn out at any emergency, and Deputy Warden Osborn, with Keepers Kennedy and Smullen, soon provided themselves with lanterns, got into a boat, and pulled lustily out into the darkness. Two voices could be distinguished in the cries for voices could be distinguished in the creas for help, and one was obviously growing fainter. Some of the keepers run along the shore, called to the men to hold on, and told them a boat was coming. The night was so dark that no object could be seen on the water, the tide was obling swiftly, and the men who were crying for help were going rapidly down with the tide.

One of the voices grew very weak, and finally stopped altogether. Deputy Warden Osborn, following the other voice, finally found a man greatly exhausted, clinging to a skiff, which was bottom up. The man proved to be Henry McFall, who had escaped from the workhouse, where he was serving a term of one year on a charge of abandon ment made by his wife. He was taken back to the island and put in the penitentiary hospital.

McFall, when partially recovered, said that his time would have expired in twenty days, and that he had been persuaded to run away by the other man, who was known in the work-escape from the penitentiary.

A Nulsance in University Place. TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN-Sir: Morethan both streets was removed and the excavation carried beyond the line of the roadway. A rough and insecure scaffolding was next-rected, by projecting timbers some four and a half or five feet into the street beyond the curb line. How much other this aboutmable mulsance, damagerous alike to those who walk and to those who raile, it to continue not seem to know.
